Acquiring a Piano

A real piano with strings and hammers (Upright, Baby Grand, or Grand) is REQUIRED.

No electric keyboards or digital pianos - no exceptions; if the piano has buttons, and runs on batteries or electricity, it is not permitted. If you are not able to fit a real piano in your apartment, or the cost is prohibitive, inform the Director, because you should not choose piano for your instrument.

You may rent or purchase a piano. Some companies have a rent-to-own option, others have financing available.

Another option is to find someone selling or giving one away (Craigslist, for example); usually you pay for the moving cost. In this case it is very important to have someone who knows pianos very well to look at it before you take it, so you know that it is in good condition.

Please also note the following:

Typical delivery cost: $275 - $300 for upright/$375 - grand (more for stairs)

Piano Tuning, required every 6 months: average $150 (please find a list of names below)

Piano Footrest – www.MyPianoFootrest.com

- Adjustable shelf with 5 levels
- Carrying handle

Hello and welcome to MyPianoFootrest.com! Our footrest is the VERY best & most affordable piano footrest on the market that provides the perfect resting place for little feet while playing the piano. I started making these piano foot rests in 1999 when our second child started Suzuki piano. These very high quality adjustable piano footrests are made on a computer controlled router which means it's a perfect piano footrest, each and every time.
